About Our Speaker

Dr. Rishi Manchanda is an "upstreamist" physician and public health innovator. He focuses on improving primary care, the social and environmental conditions that make people sick, and health and human rights.

Manchanda is founder and president of HealthBegins, a social enterprise that seeks to transform health care. He serves as the medical director of a clinic for homeless veterans in Los Angeles.

Manchanda is also the founder of RxDemocracy, a nonpartisan health care coalition that supports civic engagement and that has registered 30,000 voters in clinics nationwide. And he is the author of "The Upstream Doctors."
